

Meet your Career & Higher Education Counsellor...

I was born in Peru and emigrated to the United States when I was 11 years old. My interest in education and counselling began when I started working in two New York City high schools as a tutor and mentor while working on my university degree.

I began my professional career as a Counsellor and College Advisor at Manhattan International High School, where I worked for nine years. During this time, I was instrumental in providing experiential learning to my students by bringing programs such as mentoring (Big Brothers and Big Sisters) and community service (New York Cares) to my school. I then moved on to become a founding member of the International High School at Union Square.

I hold a B.A. in Spanish Literature and Foreign Language Education and an M.A. in Applied Psychology from New York University. In addition, I hold an M.A. in School Administration and Supervision from Touro College.
